FARMERS ADVISED NOT TO WORK LAND FROM JULY 20 TO SEPT. 1

Mr. C. W. Farstad, Dominion Entomologist, is residing in the Orkney district at the home of Mr. P.J. Rock and states that Pale Western Cutworms will in all probability cause serious trouble due to the heavy winds and soil drifting. Farmers are warned to do no work on the land from the 20th of July to September 1st.

Any farmers requiring any information regarding this matter would do well to interview Mr. Farstad.

Alberta News

The Olds Chautauqua will be held in the Arena Auditorium this year instead of the big tent.

Golf is going strong in many Alberta towns this year. The Wayne Golf club has a membership of 80.

The creamery at Innisfail has been closed on account of non-support from the surrounding district.

The citizens of Strathmore have decided to hold a big athletic and aquatic sports day in that town on Wednesday, July 1st.

Members of the Gleichen Tennis Club met with a new experience during the past week when the executive of the club organized a local doubles handicap tournament.

Frank Brande, farmer, resident a half mile north of the experimental farm at Lethbridge, shot and killed his wife Friday and then committed suicide.

The way of the transgressor—and the liquor runner—is hard. Bowling merrily along in the early hours on Wednesday morning on the inter-provincial highway from British Columbia via Alberta to Montana, a truck load of beer was stalled, the ignition failing just inside the town limits of Coleman.

The Bassano branch of the Royal Bank of Canada is now open during the noon hour.

According to Reynold's News the Prince of Wales, accompanied by his brother Prince George, will visit his Canadian ranch at High River in the autumn of this year if at all possible.

With unbroken drouth throughout this area, anxiety over the crops grows more pronounced. The past week has seen many indications of plentiful precipitation, but invariably clouds have passed by with nothing but light rain showers to brighten hope. Reports are now beginning to come in, telling of the grain "turning."—Hanna Herald.

Wheat crops in the Bassano district are making a fair growth and grain is now storing. An estimate of ten per cent is made on damage caused by soil drifting.

IRRICANA COLFERS PLAY AT CARBON

About fifteen members of the Irricana Golf Club made the trip to Carbon on Wednesday afternoon June 3, to compete with the Carbon Golfers in the Herald Playoffs. The day was ideal for golf and some good scores were made over the 18 holes played. L. Poxon of Carbon had the lowest score for the day when he made a 68 for 18 holes. This is the best score that has ever been made on the Carbon golf course.

When the four games are played in the Herald Playoffs for the towns of Irricana, Trochu and Carbon we will endeavor to give a full list of the players and the scores made.

The Carbon players go to Irricana next Sunday and the Trochu players visit Carbon the Sunday following, June 21st. This will finish the play as far as Carbon is concerned, although there will still be a game to play between Irricana and Trochu at Trochu.

This year so far the scores in the competition are better than they have ever been in the past, and it looks as if the winner of District 15 will have a good average score over the 72 holes of golf played.

Third Government Crop Report

(Issued by Dept. of Agriculture)

The weather during the greater part of the past fortnight has been cool and temperatures reaching as low as 20 degrees have been reported. The growth has been retarded but frost damage is not serious. Fortunately, showers have occurred at many points. The greatest precipitation is reported at Vermilion where 1.2 inches of rain is recorded. Light showers occurred along the main line of the C.P.R. from Calgary to Edmonton. At Claresholm half an inch of rain fell on May 28 and small showers are reported in the Lethbridge and Medicine Hat districts. The central Eastern area has received light showers but not sufficient to be of value. High winds continue to retard growth although very little re-seeding has been necessary.

There is an increase in the area sown on stubble. This method has been followed largely for the purpose of decreasing damage from soil drifting. The majority of our correspondents report an increase in the acreage seeded to Alfalfa and Sweet Clover. Crops such as beans and potatoes have also been materially increased in the irrigated areas.

Pasture and water conditions in the dry areas of the Province are becoming serious. Very little growth has taken place and in some instances drifting soil has practically covered pastures.

Owners of livestock are experiencing difficulty in obtaining feed and water supplies and in many instances the farmers are shipping their stock out to pasture.

In a few instances very slight damage from wire worms and cut worms is reported, but the damage is not serious.

Bus Accident

The Carbon-Calgary Bus and an automobile crashed with such force at 8.15 o'clock last Friday evening that a pedestrian walking across the street was hit and badly injured.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Seventh avenue and Fourth street east.

Alex Poxon, aged 23, was driving the bus West on Seventh avenue. The car driven by Enoch Dye, was proceeding South on Fourth street east.

Joseph Elo, aged 55 years, of 636 Sixth avenue east, was walking across the intersection at the time. When the crash occurred Dye's car swung round and hit Elo, who was about three feet from the curb. Elo was rushed to the General hospital and when attended to by Dr. Brodie, it was found that he had sustained three broken ribs on his right side and had suffered some injury to his left hip and pelvis.

Poxon was arrested on a reckless driving charge by Constables Timms and Strange, and later he was let out on $100 bail. The trial comes up this week.

MANITOBA WHEAT POOL TO SELL ON OPEN MARKET NOW

Every Pool elevator in Manitoba received definite orders on June 1st to permit members to obtain full spot price for wheat and coarse grains if they prefer it to the ordinary initial payment.

The alteration in the principle of the pool contract follows a one-week canvass of opinion among 94 Pool locals, but official statement of the vote on the matter goes no farther than to say that the plan proposed by the directors was overwhelmingly favored. At the present time the difference between the spot price, which is the payment in full, and the initial payment by the pool amounts to 8 3-4c a bushel on No. 1 wheat, the initial payment in Manitoba being 50c.

Rain at Last

After three years of waiting the Carbon district has been visited by a real rain storm. On Monday night a rain lasting about three hours came down. However, this was just a starter and on Tuesday evening about 8 p.m. a real rain storm commenced with a regular cloud burst and lasted for well on to a half hour at this rate. The streets and coulees were turned into streams and water was everywhere. Following the heavy cloud burst a good heavy rain kept up for another three hours and the estimated moisture that fell on Monday and Tuesday was about two inches. The moisture is now down about a foot in the soil and farmers are jubilant over the prospects of crops and pasture.

ANNUAL MEETING OF OIL COMPANY

The annual general meeting of the Carbon Exploration Company was held in the Municipal Office on Friday evening, June 5th and a large number of Carbon and Calgary shareholders were present.

The Director's Report was given by Mr. Wm. Keyes and showed that in spite of the present business depression the Company had made considerable advancement as compared with other individual oil operating companies in Alberta.

After the financial report of the Company was given the Directors for 1931 were elected as follows:

D. A. McCannel, W.A. Keyes, and Karl Klenche of Calgary; W.A. Braisher, S. N. Wright, W. G. Shell and G. L. McFarlane of Carbon.

The Directors of the Company elect their officers. These officers will be: President, S. N. Wright, Vice-President Wm. A. Keyes, Secretary-Treasurer S. E. Torrance.

Following the general business of the meeting Mr. McCannel outlined the prospects for a year of activity on the leases of the Carbon Exploration Company and it looks as if a well will be spudded in before the present summer is past. Many large companies have been interested in the acreage held by the Carbon Exploration Company and their reports indicate that the future of this Company is assured.

CHAUTAUQUA NEWS

Sue Hastings Marionettes are probably the most famous in the world. Her puppets are always beautifully costumed and move with human agility. While they will prove a revelation to both old and young in Western Canada, they have delighted the continent of Europe for many generations.

These Marionettes will present, at Carbon on Thursday afternoon, June 18th, The Adventures of Peter Rabbit, together with many surprise acts and turns. Peter Rabbit has become familiar to every boy and girl in Western Canada through the medium of the bedtime stories of the leading newspapers. These rabbits will thrill both the parents and the little folks by their clever acting, their beautiful costumes and the miniature stage upon which they play.

Carmen Light Opera Company
Popular numbers from "Naughty Marietta", "Hosson Time", and "Robin Hood", skilfully adapted to fit the allotted time, will be given with remarkable realism and artistry by the Carman Light Opera Company, on Tuesday, June 16th, at the Carbon Chautauqua.

A feature of the presentation of the operas is the condensed story of the whole opera briefly given by the manager of the Company, then the company sings and acts the most popular numbers and gives enough of the dialogue to complete the picture of the opera in its entirety. The costumes and scenery are true in every detail to each opera, and were designed by the same artist who plans much of the scenery of the Schubert Productions.

For their opening number a dramatized cathedral choir service with the robes, lighting effects and proper back grounds will render a series of our most sacred songs and anthems.

Insurance Against Depression

A newspaper published on the Pacific Coast prints the following note received by it from a worker in lumber camps: "You need not worry about me. I have worked many years in the logging camps, saved my earnings. Now, during the depression, I am able to get along on three meals a day and a good place to sleep. I am a naturalized citizen. I will vote for the things that make my adopted country a better place to live in."

Commenting on this statement, a magazine writer says it would be difficult to condense the principles of sound economics and good citizenship into smaller space. Let us analyze it a bit.

In the years when work was plentiful this industrious woodsman labored and saved, for his common sense told him that fat years and lean years had alternated throughout the known history of man. They did in Egypt in the days of Joseph, when amid the scoffings of the masses he stored up grain during seven fat years as insurance against the succeeding seven lean years. Ordinary prudence told this Pacific Coast woodsman that in storing up from the surplus of the fat years he, too, would be able to meet the deficiency of the lean ones.

This woodsman had nothing but his labor to sell, so he sold it at a profit when the market was brisk and saved the profit to provide for his needs when the market should be dull. And "depression" finds him living comfortably and free from worry. He can afford to wait in philosophic patience for the sure advent of another period of fat years.

And, after all, who of us is really differently situated than is this woodsman? What, in the final analysis, has any person to sell but his or her labor? And having sold that labor in times when it is in demand and well paid for, whether in wages, or profitable production from farms, or turnover in business, it surely is the sane and sensible policy, in fact the duty, of the laborer to "save" against the day when there comes a decline in demand for his services and a resultant decline or stoppage in current income or profit.

Everybody but the wholly improvident and thoughtless insure themselves today against sickness, accident, death and old age. They insure their homes, businesses and belongings against possible loss by fire or other catastrophe. They regard these steps as not only wise, but a duty they owe to themselves and their families. In like manner, is it not the part of wisdom, and a duty, in the fat years of earning power to "save" against the lean years which the whole history of man teaches us will inevitably come?

In all the volumes, and essays, and speeches, and editorials, and articles that have been written or spoken on economic topics, in all the speculations as to causes and cures for the present "depression," can any one find a surer specific for economic comfort and independence than that offered by this hard-headed, straight-thinking woodsman? Out of the abundant fat years lay up a store to bridge the shortage of the lean ones. It is simply the old, classic preventive of industry and thrift properly balanced. And whenever it has been applied it has worked.

Uniform Signs For Europe

Roadside warning signs in all Europe will be uniform if the countries accept the system adopted at the European Conference on Road Traffic which recently met at Geneva. Danger signs will be triangular, stop signs circular, and information signs rectangular. Should all the countries adopt it the change will mean the scrapping of thousands of signs now in use.

A New Field For the Alpinist

The great attraction of Jasper National Park in Alberta to alpine climbers is no doubt the opportunity it affords for first ascents. There are many important peaks still unconquered and even unnamed and whole regions waiting to be explored.

Inter-Provincial Traffic Council

Saskatoon Board Of Trade Voices Opposition To Proposed Plan

Opposition to the proposed prairie provinces inter-provincial traffic council was expressed at an executive meeting of the Saskatoon Board of Trade. The opinion was expressed that it would not be in the best interests of Saskatchewan and Saskatchewan to enter this association.

It was stated that Saskatchewan was in a peculiar position in connection with freight and express rates, and that at present there was a Saskatchewan traffic council which was functioning in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. Stevenson, K.C., said Manitoba and Alberta were in far more favorable situation as regards rates than this province. The one had the rate from Vancouver, while the other had the special rate from the head of the lakes.

He said that owing to the geographical situation of the province, sandwiched between two provinces which enjoyed special facilities, it would militate against Saskatchewan receiving concessions. He said that if a move were made for a reduction in rates for Saskatchewan, the other provinces, if the association were formed, would oppose any concession which would give Saskatchewan any benefit.

He also expressed the opinion that Manitoba and Alberta should proceed to organize traffic councils to operate separately and that joint action could be taken on specific problems where there was common ground.

Credit Goes To Weir

Has Made It Possible To Retain Federal Tree Nurseries

The federal tree nurseries at Indian Head and Sutherland, Saskatchewan, from where trees have been distributed to prairie farmers free of charge, are to be carried on by the federal government. This service was cut out of the estimates tabled in parliament a few weeks ago, and would have been completely abandoned on July 31, had the government not reconsidered the matter and reversed its first decision.

Not an additional dollar is to be voted for their upkeep, but Mr. Weir will cut down on other expenses within his department to obtain the funds necessary for the work. The decision, favorable to the nurseries, was reached only after Mr. Weir had put the matter before Mr. Bennett on two occasions. On the first he was refused, on the second he obtained Mr. Bennett's consent. The announcement followed a question put to the government by Hon. W. R. Motherwell.—By Grant Dexter.

Made Interesting Flight

Professor Believes It Will Revolutionize Theories About Stratosphere

The London Daily Express, in a telephone interview with Professor Auguste Piccard, "stratosphere" balloonist, quotes him as saying that the results of his flight "are likely to revolutionize all previous theories concerning the stratosphere."

"The flight proved that the stratosphere is navigable," the Professor is quoted as having said, "and that man with modern technical methods will be able to master its low pressure and its cold."

Recovered from their perilous thrust into the upper reaches of the sky, Dr. Auguste Piccard has started compiling his scientific data, while Charles Kipfer, his assistant, took a three-hour climb to recover their balloon from the glacier in which it came to rest.

Dr. Piccard said, in conversation with Austrian newspapermen, that the stratosphere, which he claimed to have penetrated in an ascent of more than 50,000 feet, was the only practicable element for long distance aviation.

"This can be done, however," he said, "only if the cabins are as airtight as our gondola was."

Information received at Innsbruck, Austria, from Professor Auguste Piccard said that he and his companion, Charles Kipfer, suffered greatly from thirst during their balloon flight into the stratosphere.

They were forced to scrape the frozen moisture from their breath off the walls of the aluminum cage, the report said, and to melt and drink it.

"The fact that we carried a double supply of oxygen saved our lives," he said. "On landing we found there was left only sufficient for one hour more."

Believes Jazz Age Dying

F. Scott Fitzgerald, the novelist who gave the jazz age its name and "discovered" the flapper, believes that the age of jazz has ended, according to a letter received from him by his publishers, Scribners. Fitzgerald said the jazz age lasted ten years from the suppression of the May Day riots in 1919 to the stock market crash in 1929.

Canada's Automobile Output Is Higher

At End Of April Production Showed Substantial Increase

Automobile production shot upward in Canada during April. With a total output of 17,159 cars, the daily average of 572 cars was 37 per cent. higher than in March, although only about one-half the average during April 1930.

The index number of production computed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which started the new year at 60 per cent. below normal, was at the end of April only 26 per cent. below normal.

Think Salaries Too Low

Civil Service Federation Holds Wages Paid Are Inadequate

Holding that the civil service salaries are inadequate, the Civil Service Federation of Canada, at the opening session of its 14th national convention in Ottawa, considered the report of its executive committee outlining plans for continued efforts to secure more adequate pay throughout the government service. The executive reported active preparation of the case for the service for higher pay to be laid before the Beatty Royal Commission.

Lesson: Luke 24.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15:50-58.

Explanations and Comments

The Interview On the Way To Emmaus, verses 13-31.—On the day of Christ's resurrection, two of His disciples (not apostles), were on their way to the village of Emmaus, seven and a half miles from Jerusalem. Disillusioned and disheartened, they were talking over the sad events of the last few days, when Jesus drew near and walked on with them. But their eyes were hidden that they should not know Him. "Holden," is the archaic form of "held." They were absorbed in their sorrow; they were not expecting to see Jesus; and Jesus' appearance was evidently changed, Luke 24:37; Mark 16:12; John 20:14, 15; 21:4. Jesus began to question them and to lead them to question their troubled hearts. "What communications are these that ye have one with another?" He asked.

"Would I like my Lord and Master to overhear all my conversations with friends who go beside me on life's way? If He were to break in suddenly on some of my talks, and say 'What manner of communications are these that ye have one with another?' how ashamed before Him I would sometimes feel! Dare I allow myself, in even an intimate conversation, to utter anything—any bitter word, any untruthful slander, any ungenerous remark—which it would cover me with confusion to think He had overheard? Must I not set a watch upon my lips?"—G. H. Knight.

"Dost Thou alone sojourn in Jerusalem and not know the things that are come to pass there in these days?" they returned in astonishment. "They meant that this itinerant stranger must be very much out of it indeed."—Dan Crawford. "What things?" asked Jesus.

"Eight vital facts they told Him: (1) Of a Jesus the Nazarene, which means, word for word, a Saviour of the worst; for 'Nazarene' meant the latter, and 'Jesus' the former. Then (2) they named Him mighty in deed and word, for His walk ever squared with His talk. Also (3) all this because it was before God, first of all, then all the people afterwards. Now comes (4) His being sentenced to die, and He died, but more than Christ died that day; for (5) there died also many a Hebrew hope that it was He who should redeem Israel. Further, sorrowfully, they seem (6) to roll up a second stone to His tomb in the dark down-to-zero words. And besides all this, it is now the third day since these things came to pass. Then (7) it ought to be the perfect number, and it is! certain women amazed us, saying He was alive! Lastly (8) certain of our own company (we did not go, but they did!) went to the sepulcher and found the facts fitted to the woman's version."—Dan Crawford.

On approaching Emmaus, Jesus "made as though" He would continue on his way. This was not pretence on His part, for had they not by their entreaties constrained Him to stay, He would have gone on. "Abide with us," they begged; "for it is toward evening, and the day is now far spent." At the evening meal Jesus offered the customary grace before partaking of the food, and then He broke the bread and gave it to them. Then their eyes were opened and they knew Him. Perhaps the familiar words spoken by the familiar voice, or a familiar gesture in the breaking of the bread (verse 35) revealed Him to them. At that moment He vanished out of their sight, leaving them with the rapturous knowledge that they had seen the Risen Christ. And they recalled how their hearts had burned within them as He talked with them on the way.

The Interview Reported To the Disciples, verses 33-35.—They hastened that very hour to Jerusalem and found the eleven disciples and others with them, lost in amazement over the good news which they had heard: "The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon."

Then the two in their turn told what had happened on the way to Emmaus and how they had recognized Christ as He supped with them and broke the bread.

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

WHAT CAME BEFORE: Captain Jimmy and his dog Scottie got lost in the darkness, while flying over the Chinese War Zone. They are captured by bandits and separated. Captain Jimmy makes his escape and plans to search for the faithful Scottie.

Yes, sir. Just as I crowded the old Chinese interpreter into the old freight car to hide from the pursuing bandits, a black object came hurtling in and struck me square in the belt.

"Scottie!" We untangled ourselves, and there was a grand reunion. But there wasn't any time to waste. The bandits were following closely on our trail. Some place must be found to hide.

In the corner of the car were piled a number of tea chests. These I shoved out so the three of us could hide in behind. Over the top I spread some old straw matting.

It only the train would move along before the bandits caught up, we would be all right, but it seemed to be waiting on the switch until a train coming the other way had passed.

Suddenly the sound of hoofs rang on the rocky railway siding and a score of bandits began running up and down the train, peering into the cars. Things looked pretty serious, especially when a big Chinaman began rummaging around among the tea chests. Luckily he did not notice our hiding place.

Something had to be done quickly, however, or the outlaws would return and find us. Quietly I signalled Fu Hsu and Scottie to follow me. We dropped out of the car and crept softly along the side of the train away from the bandits, and groped our way in the dim early morning light toward the engine.

The engine and fireman leaned out of their cab anxiously, wondering what was happening down along the track. I slipped in behind them and gave them a good shove. Off they went—end over end into the ditch.

Promptly I threw the reverse lever and opened the throttle. There was a violent jarring of drive wheels. The cars bumped and crashed against one another noisily, and at the same time I pulled the whistle valve wide open. The whistle fairly shrieked. It was a perfect bedlam let loose.

Panicked, the bandits rushed to the car doors to escape. Some jumped out, some were pushed out, others simply fell out. In less time than it takes to tell it, there was not a bandit on board.

Away we roared, gathering speed as we backed down the track for we dared not go forward in the face of the engine. The engine rocked and swayed. I took up the shovel to feed the boiler fire, when suddenly a heavy boot struck out from under the coal and someone hooted.

What next? Even the coal was alive with Chinese bandits.

"Maybe I'm a bandit, Captain," said the owner of the boot. "But not Chinese anyway."

Where had I heard that familiar voice before? I shoved him into the light. His face was like a black mask from the coal dust.

"By Golly! Jed Stone!" I yelled. And so it was. My old friend Jed Stone who I had not seen for many years. Our meeting was one of those old coincidences that you couldn't make happen in a lifetime if you tried to plan it.

Jed told me a startling story. He had a brother, Guy, engaged in Chinese famine relief work. A bandit gang had passed through the country raiding and plundering the pitifully scant food supplies of the people.

Guy followed the bandits for days, and tried to reason with the chief. Making no impression he finally lost control of himself, and before anyone could interfere, soundly thrashed the villain.

As might be expected, the bandits overpowered him, and carried him to the mountains. Jed had now set out in search of his brother, but had no very definite idea where he might be found.

Suddenly, I realized that Jed's brother was held captive by the same rascally crew of outlaws that captured me on the day before. We began to lay our plans, and so interested did we become that we did not notice another train rounding the curve from the opposite direction, until the whistle shrieked.

THE SILVER STANDARD

The silver question seems to be one that is bothering some of the leading financial men of the world lately and it is a question of vital importance to world finance. Just recently Mr. J.E.
Darling, a director of the Midland Bank of London England, and a leading authority on silver, proposed that the price of silver be restored and stabilized at one-twentieth the value of gold. In this way the Asiatic and European countries would be able to purchase supplies with their silver coin, which at the present time is worth very little. If China and India could buy for silver the same as for gold and on a certain basis of value, these countries would begin to use more of our western products, and especially wheat. With the increased use of this cereal as a food product in the European countries the price of wheat would no doubt begin to rise in a very short time. There would be a demand for it and the surplus on the world markets would be absorbed.

After all, this stabilizing of the price of silver to one-twentieth the price of gold is not a hard matter to attain.
In fact all that is necessary in a bill in parliament to set the price of silver on a proportionate basis with gold.
It would not be long then, before the other countries of the world would follow suit in order to get the trade with the Asiatic and European countries.

This question of silver prices has long been in abeyance and it is about time that the government of the country was taking some action on the matter. It will at least be a step toward better conditions for the starving races of the other countries using the silver standard. After all, what is lacking in Canada today, is the actual dollars and cents with which to buy the necessities of life. With this foreign money, or silver, in the country this situation would be partly relieved at least.

If Magistrate Davidson, who sentenced a young lad to imprisonment for stealing a few pies, could hear the unfavorable comments that have been expressed by people in all walks of life, he might wish that he had exercised a little more of the milk of human kindness. To make an exconvict out of a hungry boy for purloining a few pies is surely most regrettable and an effort should be made to have sentence suspended.—Strathmore Standard.

CHAPTER XIX.—Continued.

"I couldn't get along without you, Uncle Sim. Here's the letter. You'll call me a goose after you've read it! I'll wash away these tears, and I shan't shed any more, I promise."

Better not make no promises," said Simeon, as he moved toward the stairs. "Nothin' clears the air like a good cry, less it's a thunder storm, and that don't always work, neither."

He went down, and out on the porch, the letter in his hand; but at sight of Halliday, still talking with the children, he crossed the driveway and joined them by the sand pile.

"You got a letter from Jamaica?" he questioned.

"Why, no," Halliday was slightly puzzled at the question. "The fact is, Mr. Bartlett, my wife is the worst correspondent possible. She usually leaves her letters till the last moment, and then misses the mail; so I've learned not to worry when I don't hear. Did Mrs. Hastings get her letter?"

Simeon nodded assent.

"Is her husband coming soon? I thought she wasn't looking well this morning."

"She ain't," said Simeon. "She's goin' to see the doctor this afternoon. I do no what ails her, but I think she's just plain scared." He lowered his voice, a cautious eye on the children. "She most—went out, when little Nick was born, and—maybe you've noticed there's another comin'?" I wish Nick was to home."

"But surely he'll get back as soon as possible. He wouldn't leave her long at a time like this, or—"

"He don't know a thing about it," broke in the old man quickly. "She didn't want he should know till he come back. He hasn't paid up all the bills for his own sickness, and she thought he'd worry and like as not give up goin' at all if he knew what was loomin' up ahead. That's why she hurried him off; but she needs him now just to give her courage, and—"

(Uncle Sim cleared his throat a bit uncomfortably). "Well," he hesitated, "she's got a letter to-day, and Nick—well, he's gone off acruisin' in someone's private yacht, along o' your wife. I thought likely you'd heard about the plan."

"With my wife?"

Halliday was all attention.

"Yep," answered Uncle Sim. His eyes apparently on the gorgeous yellow bow that adorned small Martha's curls. "He'd about made up his mind to come straight home, when Mis' Halliday blew in with an invitation. I take it some friends o' hers was goin' off to some outlandish places—just the sort o' thing that would tempt a tramp like Nick. I ain't read the letter yet, but I gather he thought he'd oughter not lose the chance. He said they'd drop him somewhere along about a month from now, down Cuby way, where he could get back home. Well, all I got to say is, I hope to God he gets here all right. The sooner the better."

His eyes lifted from the yellow ribbon, to Halliday's face; but the younger man had glanced away.

"Did he say whose yacht they were to go on?"

"Gay said it belonged to some folks that was visitin' your wife last summer. She didn't mention the name."

Halliday looked thoughtful.

"Have they started yet — left Jamaica, I mean?"

"She says they must ha' gone yesterday, or the day before."

"If she needs him couldn't we send a wireless?"

"We don't know the name o' the yacht. Gay thinks maybe another letter'll come mailed before they got away. This one was written a week ago."

"Then we must wait. I—I'm sorry that Mrs. Halliday was in any way to blame; but I wish Hastings knew the state of affairs here."

"I wish so too, gol darn it! I'd half a mind to tell the boy myself, before he went; but I ain't one to meddle. Mr. Halliday, and I thought likely Gay knew her own business. She was thinkin' of what was best for Nick, like she always does. Here she comes now. Don't let on I been talkin', or that you see she's been cryin' some. She don't cry very often, but she ain't well, and had sort o' made up her mind he'd be here most any time now."

Gay waved to them cheerfully, but sat down on the porch and took up her sewing. Halliday was silent for a moment, then he said quietly: "When is her baby comin', Mr. Bartlett?"

"Not till along the first o' September. Oh, Nick'll be back; only she wants him now, and seems like she ought to have him. Still, the month'll go pretty quick now warmer days have come and she can get about more. It's powerful warm for the middle o' April ain't it? Guess spring's tryin' to make up for the fierce weather we got last winter. You let me know if you hear anything, Mr. Halliday? Maybe you'll get more definite word than what Gay has."

James Halliday doubted, even while he promised to tell Simeon at once should anything enlightening come his way. Angela's letter, written the day Nick's was, but, as usual, too late to catch the boat, arrived four days later in the mail that brought another to Gay. Angela wrote:

Just a line to let you know that I'm off with the Myers on their yacht "Sea Bird." We're to cruise for a couple of months, so I can't tell you where to write if you want anything of me, which isn't likely anyway. Might try Havana, and Nassau, if there's anything to say. We'll end at Miami, but goodness knows when. It may interest you to know that Nick Hastings has joined our party. I'll wire when we land—not that it will make much difference to you now that you've found another innamorata.

Halliday's brow drew into a puzzled frown; then cleared at the thought that she was referring to small Martha. The note said little more, and he sighed as he laid it down. For years he had scanned Angela's hasty letters eagerly, seeking a word of tenderness that never came. The thing was a habit now. He had ceased to care for tenderness from her; yet the ghost of their dead past still had the power to hurt him.

Nick wrote:

Dearest, in an hour we're off. I'm as excited as a kid at his first Christmas tree. The yacht, "Sea Bird," is a beauty—eighty feet long—white paint—brass rails—mahogany trimmings, and all the fixings you read about in fiction. The party consists of Mr. and Mrs. Myer whom we met last summer; their little girl; a sporty-looking old cove named Nowell (they picked him up at the Titchfield, I believe), Mrs. Halliday and myself. Honestly, Gay, save for Mrs. H. and the kid, it's not a very congenial-looking crowd. But I sha'n't mind. It's places, not people I'm after.

Talk about "the ends of the earth!" We're to cruise among the Bahama Islands—the outer Bahamas, many of them uninhabited. Send your letter to Nassau, not Havana. They've decided to drop me there instead, where I can catch the Royal Mail for New York. I'll wire on landing, but this is probably the last letter you will have. Think what a whale of a lot we'll have to talk about! And how I wish you were going, too!

Five weeks later, on a morning when Gay was wondering if her telegram would come that day, as indeed, she had been wondering for the last week, Sonny appeared at breakfast and handed her the morning paper. She opened it idly, waiting for Uncle Sim to come in from the garden, before she poured his coffee. Sonny ran out to call him, and baby Nick was busy with his oatmeal.

The room was very still. The rustle of the newspaper as Gay spread it open was the only sound, until the baby set up a sort of sing-song that he and Sonny had been chanting for the last week:

"My daddy tumin soon—my daddy tumin soon—my daddy tumin soon—my daddy tumin soon—"

The baby stopped; Gay had uttered a little moan that frightened him. She was staring at the paper, reading with blurred eyes the words:

Terrible hurricane in the West Indies and Bahamas. Many small boats go down. United Fruitler from Port Antonio makes difficult headway against the storm. No word of the "Sea Bird," a gasoline yacht owned by George B. Myer, of Tulsa and Pasadena, which left Kingston more than a month ago for a cruise among the outer Bahamas. Last wireless from them was picked up at Key West, twenty-four hours before the storm. On board, besides the crew, were Mr. and Mrs. Myer, their ten-year-old daughter, Marjorie, Mrs. James P. Halliday of Boston, Colonel Charles Nowell of Cincinnati, and Nicholas Hastings.

There was a crash of breaking china, and a howl from little Nick. When a moment later Uncle Sim and Sonny rushed in, the baby was screaming with fright, while Gay lay unconscious across the table.

Canadian Citizenship

Bill Before Commons Sets Forth Qualifications For Canadian Nationality

Second reading was given in the House of Commons to the government bill to define Canadian nationals and to provide for loss or renunciation of Canadian nationality. Sponsored by Hon. C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, the bill sets forth definitely the qualifications for Canadian nationality, and also the process whereby a national of Canada may lose or renounce his nationality. Mr. Cahan intimated that the bill, if passed in the form presented to the House, might necessitate some amendments to the Immigration act. As the law now stood, said Mr. Cahan, a man who left Canada for a trip, and was delayed over a year, had to make his way into this country in just the same manner as an immigrant from Siberia or Turkestan. Missionaries who went abroad to pursue their calling, were away a considerable period, and sometimes brought up families in a foreign country, could not claim Canadian nationality for their children.

Hopes To Become Fire Chief

With the hope of eventually becoming chief of a fire brigade in Calcutta, India, a young Indian has joined the fire department of Birmingham, England. He is Sushil Chandra Das Gupta, and is 24 years old. Calcutta has 700 fire brigades, and the native brigades are officered by Europeans, but the dusky youth believes there is a future for native officers.

German Battleship Slides Down Ways Before Being Christened

Germany's first "pocket battleship," known as the Ersatz Preussen while under construction at Kiel, launched herself, sliding down the ways six minutes ahead of schedule while Chancellor Bruening was still far from the end of his christening address and before President von Hindenburg could hurl a champagne bottle against the warship's bow.

Sixty thousand looked on in astonished silence, forgetting to cheer until just as the bow settled into the water.

"Deutschland be thy name!" President von Hindenburg called after the rapidly receding ship, while the champagne bottle dangled aimlessly in the air before the christening stand for a few seconds and then fell to the ground, unsmashed.

Investigation has not yet determined whether one wire of the cables holding the ship fast parted or some one gave the signal to release the last chock too soon. Naturally, much uneasiness exists among Kiel sailor folk over what is technically an unchristened ship.

Little Helps For This Week

"Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord." — 1 Corinthians xv. 58.

Though scoffers ask where is your gain,

And mocking say your work is vain, Such scoffers die and are forgot, Work done for God, it dieth not.

Press on! press on! nor doubt nor fear, From age to age this voice shall cheer:

Whatever may die and be forgot, Work done for God, it dieth not.

—Thomas Knox.

When men do anything for God, the very least thing, they never know where it will end, nor what amount of work it will do for Him. Love's secret therefore is to be always doing things for God, and not to mind because they are very little ones.

—Frederick William Faber.

Const. M. Moriarty returned to Carbon on Friday last after spending the past ten months in Ireland on police business. Mr. Moriarty states that during the past year approximately 80 inches of rainfall was recorded in Dublin. It seems that Mr. Moriarty has been thoughtful of the Carbon district and thus brought back some of that Irish moisture with him.

D. A. McCannel of Calgary was a Carbon visitor last week and took in the Oil meeting here.

—A Strawberry Social and Tea will be held under the auspices of the Carbon W.A. in the old Frisco Store on Saturday, June 13th, from 3:00 to 10:00 p.m. Everybody welcome.

The proposed inaugural meeting of the Young Peoples' Society has been postponed for a week, owing to the presence of the Chautauqua.

Now that the Carbon district has had a million dollar rain there should be no excuse for anyone not buying a Season Ticket to the Carbon Chautauqua.

The recent rain certainly made the Knee Hill Creek rise. For the past two weeks this creek has been practically dry. Following the rain there was approximately six feet of water at a point near the swing bridge. The water is now subsiding, although it will no doubt be some time before the water is down to its old level.

"Good morning, Mrs. Kelly," said the doctor, "did you take your husband's temperature as I told you?"

"Yes, doctor, I borrowed a barometer and placed it on his chest; it said
'very dry' so I bought him a pint of beer and he's gone back to work."

Mother—Well, Heckie, do you think your teacher likes you?"
Heckie—I think so, mummy, because she puts a kiss on all my sums.

Life Insurance Agent—Do you want a straight life?

Applicant—Well I like to step out once in a while.

A judge was having tea with some friends who had recently been married.
"Have you tried one of my cakes?"
asked the young wife.

"No," replied the judge; "but I dare-say they deserve it."

An Irishman and a Scotsman were arguing as to which of their respective countries had the lightest men.

The Irishman led the argument by saying: "We have men of Cork."

"That may be" said the Scotsman,
"but we have men if Ayr."

Customer: The sausage you sent me were meat at one end and breadcrumbs at the other.

Butcher: Quite so, madam. In these hard times it is very difficult to make both ends meet.

MARIONETTES

A production of "Peter Rabbit" by the Marionettes will be a revelation to both old and young. They will have a miniature stage of their own, and the dramatic incidents will thrill with as much force as if they were played by flesh and blood performers.
